COURTS SHOULD BE REGENERATED WITH THE SPIRIT OF JUSTICE

LEGAL PROFESSION HAS DEPARTED FROM ORIGINAL PRINCIPLES AND LOFTY IDEALS.

By Geo. W. Armstrong.

"The lawyer is so important in our domestic, commercial and political life and his services are of such a character that he should be made a bonded salaried public official; the number limited to the public need, and what it is willing to pay for, and his activities confined to the Administration of Justice.
"The profession must renounce commercialism, and return to its original principles and lofty ideals. Let justice be the beacon light and all rules and precedents subordinated to her attainment. The courts must be regenerated by and with the spirit of justice. The judiciary may then sing that good old hymn, 'Amazing Justice how sweet the sound, that saved a wretch like me. I once was lost, but now am found, blind, but now I see.'
"The trial of a law suit is a fierce combat between two or more lawyers, which is more often determined by the astuteness, the aggressiveness and the personality of the lawyer, than by the merits of the cause. It is almost as probable that justice would be obtained by a physical combat between the lawyers as by a mental. We have not improved very much over the ancient method of determining truth by walking blindfolded over heated plough shares. In the case of crime this ancient method has the advantage at least of making impossible the 'unwritten law,' and the 'hip-pocket' defenses, which are the open doors by which so many red-handed, cold-blooded murderers escape.
Redeeming Features of Our System.
"The jury and the justice of the peace court are the two redeeming features of our present system. The jury tries to arrive at the justice of the case notwithstanding the protest of the lawyers, and the limitations of the court. There should be radical changes in the qualifications of jurors, the number should be reduced to five or seven and a majority should be empowered to return a verdict. No criminal, no defendant seeking delay and no lawyer desiring to hinder or obstruct justice wants a majority verdict. A speedy trial can usually be obtained in the justice court, and the procedure is informal and simple. As a rule, the less law the justice of the peace pretends to know, the better justice he makes."—

Your Figure
AND Your Corset

The prominent feature in corseting today is the tendency toward a quite well defined figure line.

Those favored with an ideal figure, welcome the change in dress from the loosely draped garments.
To secure today's fashion line, necessitates very careful corseting. Especially is this true where the corset must overcome figure defects and give a pleasing line.
G-D Justrite models are authentic in style and form a perfect foundation for the latest styles in dress. The season's demand is fully met in the new models.

G-D Justrites have the reputation of making good figures.
